

Slatted Aluminium Staging unit.

INSTRUCTIONS

Please read all before you begin.

Note!

Components:

- Tip your nuts, bolts and screws into one of the seed trays.
- Throughout initial assembly the nuts and bolts need only be finger tight. The structure will be squared out on a level floor later on.
- In this model the nuts can be used in either direction. Having the nuts on the outside is the quicker option, however, having the nuts on the inside gives a neater finish.

1

- Layout the four legs.
- Join each pair together with the 'short side' sections.
- Add bracings for strength.

2

- Place one of the sides on the floor and attach the 'long horizontal' sections (Check that the screw channel is pointing upwards).
- Add bracing to top horizontal.

3

- Attach the other side frame in a similar manner.

4

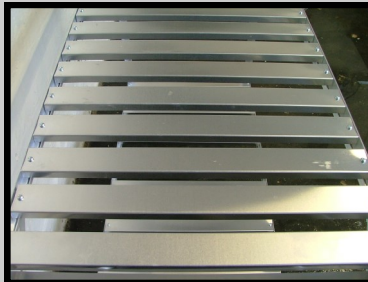

- The structure should now be lifted onto its legs. It will be unstable at this stage due to the un-tightened nuts and bolts so it is a good idea to lean it up against a wall.

5

Attach the three remaining horizontal sections along with the bracings.

6

Count out the number of slats that have been supplied with your staging. Half of the slats are for the top tier, the remaining for the bottom. Place the slats onto the 'long horizontals', there should be about two fingers width between each slat.

8

Stand the frame on a level floor so the frame can be squared, diagonal measurements should be equal when finished.

Tighten-up each nut and bolt ensuring that both the long and short horizontals butt up against the leg. Make

7

Screw each of the slats in to place. Ensure that the screws locate into the groove in each of the 'long horizontals'.

9

- Move the frame into situ.
